COMMUNISTS, Anarchists, Nihilists used to blow up Czars and Grand Dukes or try to. New friends of Czarism adopt the method, bombing and shooting Communists that have taken the Czar's place and power. Yesterday came news that the Communists' Debating Club in Leningrad had been sent into the air by two bombs, 26 hurt. News the day before told that M. Volkoff, Bolshevik minister to Poland, had been murdered by an advocate of Czardom.

BOLSHEVISM is sensitive to these attacks as were the Czars of old. The fact that Volkoff, said to have signed the Czar's death warrant, was murdered in Poland, may cause trouble for Europe. It was "the crime of Serajevo," killing the heir to the Austrian throne, that started the great World War.

It is said "murder never changed the course of history." But it sometimes hurries things along.

UNCLE SAM will soon make a "financial statement" reading about as follows:

Assets of the United States, Alaska, Philippines, Hawaii, other territory AND public schools:

"Income more than a hundred billions a year, wealth beyond calculation, DEBTS NONE."

OGDEN MILLS, assistant to Secretary Mellon, tells the Bankers' Association that since 1919 the national debt has been reduced by $6,611,000,000, from $25,484,000,000 to $18,873,000,000. Last year the Treasury paid off $873,000,000 of debt, and with the fiscal year ending this month the net payment will run over one billion.

LONDON believes the Prince of Wales will marry a Spanish Princess, the Infanta Beatrice, relation of British royalty. That is not as important to Great Britain as some marriages of which you will never hear. The royal marriage will decide the character of a King of England. Some obscure marriage, perhaps that of a coal miner, or even a despised "tradesman," will decide the character of a future British Premier, who will tell the son of the Prince of Wales what to do and what to say.

BIG LINDY GUARD IN WASHINGTON

HOUGHTON WARNING HEEDED

Washington, June 9 (A.P.)—Extraordinary precautions to guard Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh during his official reception and stay in Washington will be taken by the metropolitan police and the army.

This was disclosed today after Frank B. Noyes, publisher of the Washington Evening Star, had delivered to the semi-official reception committee a warning on this subject.

The warning was from Ambassador Houghton, who has just returned to Washington from London and who was caught in the terrific jam at Croydon Field, Eng., when a crowd of some 200,000 persons rushed toward Lindbergh after he landed there from Belgium.

"HUMAN CHAIN" FOR HERO.

Brigadier-General S. D. Rockenbach, commander of the Washington army district and grand marshal of the parade arranged for Lindbergh, said that should the crowd rush the aviation hero while he was moving along Pennsylvania avenue, the 2,000 troops in line, including the cavalry escort, would surround his car and afford necessary protection.

These same troops, including some sailors and marines, will form a human chain around the reception platform at Washington Monument grounds, while President Coolidge is welcoming Lindbergh and decorating him with the Distinguished Flying Cross.

CAVALRY IN BODYGUARD.

On the trip from the monument grounds to the temporary White House the cavalry troop from Fort Myer and motorcycle police will form the bodyguard. On Sunday the guarding will be left entirely to the police unless it should be found necessary to call out the troops.

With 100,000 government employes turned loose at noon, the hour Lindbergh is to leave the Washington Navy Yard, there will be a crush and dash for vantage points along

VICTIM A GIRL OF DEEP FAITH

LIFE CUT SHORT

Stella Kale's innermost thoughts are bared to the searching eyes of police and public as her neat little diary is read carefully for possible clues.

SHE FIXES DEATH HOUR

Peggy Gramon, Salisbury Beach waitress, has convinced the police that the murder took place about midnight on Sunday. She speaks highly of Miss Kale.

BARBER SUSPECT SOLD SLAIN GIRL'S WATCH; ALSO SHOWED HER RING

Salisbury Beach, N. H., June 9.—The missing wrist watch of Stella Kale, murdered Lawrence girl, was turned over to the police today by William M. Dowe, who bought it from an itinerant barber, last employed at Hampton Beach, N. H.

Through this and other discoveries today the slaying of the pretty blonde has, according to the authorities, been virtually pinned on this barber.

When he sold the watch to Dowe of Kensington, N. H., last Monday afternoon, he also had in his possession a sapphire ring similar to the one torn from the strangled girl's finger.

'SUPPRESSED WITNESS' TELLS HIS SACCO STORY

Roy E. Gould, a salesman claimed by the Sacco defense committee to be the mysterious "suppressed witness" in the Sacco-Vanzetti case, today, behind closed doors, told his story to Governor Fuller, Lt. Governor Allen and the Governor's personal counsel, Joseph Wigglesworth.

Gould, who claims to have been within a short distance of the scene of the South Braintree murder, and who claims the driver of the murder car fired point blank at him, the bullet going through his overcoat, was not a witness in the trial of Sacco and Vanzetti.

SLASHER BRANDS DORIS DORE WITH SEVEN 'K'S'

Hollywood, Cal., June 9 (A.P.).—Miss Doris Dore, twenty-one actress, who appeared recently in "An American Tragedy," was branded with the letter "K" on her forehead, chin, chest, arms and hands with a razor blade wielded by an unidentified man who forced an entrance into her apartment early today.

The man, about thirty, believed by the police to be motivated by revenge, entered Miss Dore's apartment when she opened the door in response to a knock, about 2 a. m. She told police he held her powerless while he shaved the letter "K" on her in seven places.

Hollywood police who questioned the actress said she had been fo

SLAIN GIRL'S WATCH FOUND; BOUGHT FROM BARBER

He has also been identified at a Hampton Beach drug store as the purchaser of the small-rim glasses which were found beside the body of the girl on the sand of the beach here.

Within a short time of the hour at which the murder must have been committed—about 1 o'clock Sunday night—he was seen here by a policeman who trailed him for a time because of a report from a 13-year-old girl that he had tried to pick up an acquaintanceship with her.

Robbery now looms as a partial motive for the crime, as the barber in question is known to have been without funds when he arrived here Sunday afternoon frmo Hampton Beach.

The last seen of him was when Dowe, who gave him a ride on the road between Hampton Falls and Kensington, saw him disappear along the road toward Exeter, N. H., a place where, the investigators have discovered, he was recently employed.

ALARM SENT OUT.

The alarm for his capture has been sent far and wide by police departments. Because of his shortage of funds, it is not thought he could have got far, although it is believed he would lie to make his way to Miami, Fla., where he told acquaintances he has a wife and five months old baby.

The discovery of the missing wrist watch overshadowed even the discovery that this man, whose name for the present is being withheld by the police, purchased the shell-rim glasses a few hours before the murder.

Dowe brought the watch to the Amesbury police station where it was immediately identified as that of Stella Kale by case and works numbers.

"I give this man a lift in my automobile last Monday afternoon about 5:15," he said, giving a description which fitted that of the Hampton Beach barber's assistant.

BELONGED TO WIFE.

"He told me he was hungry and hadn't eaten for three days. He showed me the watch and I had no reason to be suspicious. He said that the watch belonged to his wife.

"I said to help him out I would buy the watch if he didn't want too much and he took three dollars for it. He also tried to sell me a ring.

"I gave the watch to my sister, Mrs. Helen Dickenson, and we thought nothing of it in connection with the murder until we saw a description of it in the papers. We immediately knew it was the watch of the murdered girl."

Mrs. Dickinson accompanied Dowe to Amesbury today where they first told their story to Patrolman Alfred Boudreau and later to State Detective William Murray, who dashed there from this town.

BARBER TRACED.

Earlier in the day, the police, who have been making inquiries for two days about the "missing barber," learned that he arrived at Hampton Beach last Friday and asked for work. A barber named Richard Bulger hired him when business became brisk on Saturday and that night Bulger put him up at his cottage.

Sunday morning Bulger told him he could not hope for steady work and that was the last he saw of his hired man. But in the drug store of Donovan and Fallon at Hampton Beach, police say, he bought the shell-rim glasses and spoke of being a barber looking for a job.

Those in the store saw him take the Salisbury Beach bus. According to Bulger, he had only $150 when he left Bulger's cottage. The glasses and other purchases at the drug store cost him $1.30, leaving him just enough to get to Salisbury Beach, but leaving him without any money when he arrived here.

AT BEACH SUNDAY.

Police say that the suspect was seen in several places here on Sunday and that about 10 o'clock he was reported to have tried to make friends with the little girl who reported him to the policeman and pointed him out.

The officer followed him through the crowd in the direction of the south end of the beach but lost sight of him.

Besides the watch and ring, a

SAPIRO IS SUED FOR $900,000

Chicago, June 9 (I.N.S.)—Aaron Sapiro, Chicago lawyer and farm co-operative organizer, and F. J. Lisman, New York banker and traction financier, were defendants today in a $900,000 breach of contract suit brought by Andrew Stevenson, Chicago banker and railroad reorganization expert, and James R. Howard, Clemons, Ia., president of the American Economic Institute.

Breach of contract in the reorganization of several midwestern railroads on plans Stevenson claims he originated was charged.

Sapiro, whose $1,000,000 suit against Henry Ford created great interest, was named as a member, with Lisman and Mark T. McKee, Detroit attorney, of the merger committee to form an underwriting syndicate to organize the system.

Railroads included the Chicago & Great Western, Minneapolis & St. Louis, the old Chicago, Peoria & St. Louis and the Wabash.

WARBURTON CHILDREN IN CUSTODY OF FATHER

New York, June 9 (A. P.)—The two young children of Mr. and Mrs. Barclay H. Warburton, 2nd, who recently were divorced in Paris, are in custody of their father today, having been sent from France by their mother, who was awarded their custody in her divorce.

Mrs. Warburton is now rumored to be engaged to William K. Vanderbilt, 2nd, who himself was divorced a few weeks ago in Paris. Passengers aboard the liner France said the children, Barclay, 3rd, aged 5, and Rose, aged 3, were escorted aboard the ship by Mr. Vanderbilt, who requested that unusual care be given them. The children were in charge of a governess. Mr. Warburton said the children will remain with him.

Oh, Boys! Here's Lindy and His Airplane!

This notice is for the special attention of all fathers who are "regular fellows."

But Mothers, too, may read it.

And all boys who are not under 5 nor over 11 years of age.

It will be good news for Billy and Tommy and Jackie and Clarence and Harold, and all the other fellows, that "Plucky Lindy" is coming to them with Saturday's Boston Evening American.

"Plucky Lindy" and his famous Ryan monoplane!

The "Spirit of St. Louis!"

The very plane in which "Charlie" Lindbergh crossed the Atlantic Ocean!

A full half-page of Saturday's Evening American will contain "The Plucky Lindy Cut-Out" plane, all ready to be put together. You get it for nothin' and it's yours for keeps.

The part of the exercises will be to supply the piece of thin cardboard.

Mother's part may be to do the necessary pasting and cutting.

There are Daddies who can and will do this sort of thing, but there are not many of them. Lucky is the lad who has one. It calls for skill and some patience, and everyone knows that Mothers are the most patient persons in all the world.

Joe Knott, of the New York Evening Journal, designed this "Plucky Lindy Cut-Out" Plane, and boys it's a humdinger!

Full directions come with each and every plane. There are seven sections, each of them plainly numbered. You can't go wrong.

All that is required—in addition to the big piece of thin cardboard which Pa will bring home with him—will be a piece of cord, a toothpick and one pin.

When the sections have been cut out, and put together according to directions, the plane may be hung from the ceiling. Or, if you want to see it "go," from the ceiling of the porch, or just outside the window.

You can see "Plucky Lindy," himself, seated in the pilot-house or whatchamaycall it, just as they saw him in France and Belgium and England. Just as, one of these days, we are to see him here in Boston.

(If you don't get Saturday's American you'll be out of luck.)

NEGRO BOY SCOUT TROOP IS GIVEN A SILVER CUP

Troop 9, negro Boy Scouts of Roxbury, were today presented with a silver cup by City Councillor Charles G. Keene, representing Mayor Nichols, in front of City Hall. The cup was the gift of Arthur H. Girls Must Rouge! Here's One Reason Why, Brothers!

Girls who have been laying off rouge because of the new Paris fad calling for dead-white faces splashed with cherry-red lips will come back to a more pastel-like treatment of countenances, it was predicted today by Adolph H. Ackerman at the annual meeting of the Massachusetts Pharmaceutical Association at the New Ocean House, Swampscott.

"The girls of today need rouge to clor out the lines of a hilarious night before," said Ackerman.

Captain George A. Parker, Federal prohibition director for this district, said that while rum running by sea is at a low ebb, the home-still industry is booming.

RUSH TO GREET LINDBERGH

More Than 150,000 in Rush To Capital to Greet Lindy

Washington, June 9 (I.N.S.)—With flivver caravans reported on the way and railroads announcing an unprecedented demand for transportation, Washington police officials today prepared to handle a crowd of 150,000 visitors at the national home-coming of Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, trans-Atlantic air hero, on Saturday.

The widespread interest aroused by the flight of Chamberlin and Levine apparently served only to intensify the determination of local people to give Lindbergh a welcome more enthusiastic than the receptions American fliers met abroad.

Disregarding the official starting time—set for his arrival at the presidential dock about 11 A. M., Saturday—thousands of people scurried to make reservations on steamboats which will travel in the wake of the U. S. Memphis up the Potomac.

The official program, drawn with the express approval of President Coolidge, had failed to end the flood of invitations to the young aviator.

A dramatic appeal was sent to Lindbergh by a local society which had planned a benefit ball for Saturday night. Although Lindbergh does not dance the flapper committee wirelessed that success or failure of their effort for Mississippi flood sufferers depends upon his presence.

In addition to the program is the award of the Cross of Honor of the United States Flag Association by Charles Evans Hughes. The honor is awarded for conspicuous service to the flag.

Officials of the Missouri society went ahead with plans for a reception on Sunday night, anticipating acceptance by the pilot of the "Spirit of St. Louis."

U. S. WARSHIPS PUT TO SEA TO GREET LINDBERGH

On Board United States Cruiser Memphis, June 9.—The United States Government today began putting the finishing touches upon the arrangements for greeting Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, homeward-bound on this warship.

The Navy Department asked the exact location of the Memphis to have the Navy dirigible Los Angeles greet the Memphis at sea.

One of the six destroyers sent out to escort the Memphis will come up with the cruiser at dawn tomorrow morning.

Another will leave the operating base at Hampton Roads today to bring Richard R. Blythe, a friend of Lindbergh's and the New York representative of the St. Louis committee which backed the flight.

Four other destroyers will meet the Memphis 50 miles off the Virginia Capes about 1:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. They will later be joined by two others.

The Memphis is expected to reach Cape Henry at 4 p. m. Friday and to reach the Washington Navy Yard at 11 o'clock Saturday morning.

The Memphis was 822 miles from the Washington Navy Yard at 8 a. m. Eastern daylight time today and making 21.3 knots an hour in a calm sea.

Lindberg arose later than usual. He had sat up late last night writing letters to friends in Detroit and St. Louis to be mailed as soon as the Memphis docks.

He was the luncheon guest today of the "Black Gang," the engineer division of the Memphis crew, and later was photographed with them. He then spent some time on deck watching for flying fish and porpoises.

All U. S. Radios plan Hookup for Lindbergh

Washington, June 9 (A.P.)—America's huge radio machinery in a continuous 11-hour period Saturday will be devoted to broadcasting the name and fame of the hero aviator Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh.

For the first time in history 37 stations throughout the United States associated with the National Broadcasting Company, which announced the plan today, will be solely used in presenting the addresses and description of the national capital's welcome and reception of the 25-year-old New York-to-Paris flier to America's radio audience of 20,000,000 persons.

11-HOUR PROGRAM.

The program will start at 12 noon, the time of Lindbergh's arrival at Washington, and will close at 11 p. m. that night.

The Boston stations that will participate in the broadcast are WEEI and WBZ.)

Three outstanding features will be broadcast—Lindbergh's welcome and decoration with the Distinguished Flying Cross by President Coolidge at the Washington Monument and his addresses at the receptions of the National Press Club and the Minnesota State Society.

Another decoration has been added to the long list of honors to be heaped upon the aviator when the award of the Cross of Honor of the United States Flag Association.

AVIATION TRIBUTES.

Probably the tribute which will strike closer to the heart of Lindbergh when he reaches his home-land again will be that of two aviators who likewise have gained places in flying's roll of fame—Commander Richard E. Byrd, the first man to fly over the North Pole, and Commander A. S. Read, who piloted the first plane across the Atlantic. Wearing the full dress uniform of the navy, they will meet Lindbergh when he lands at Washington.

Aviation's homage in escorting the Memphis from far out at sea to Washington will include an array of aircraft, four times as great as that which flew over the nation's fleet when it was reviewed by the President last Saturday at Hampton Roads.

More than ninety army and navy airplanes, together with the navy dirigible Los Angeles, will form the aerial procession over the vessel.

N. Y. Wants Lindbergh To Land in Harbor

W. R. Hearst Offers Hero Airmen $100,000 to Fly Back to America

BERLIN, June 9.—Chamberlin and Levine, on their arrival in Berlin, were offered by William Randolph Hearst $100,000 as a prize for a non-stop flight from Berlin back to New York, including an exclusive account of both flights.

The offer was made at the American Embassy in writing in the presence of Counsellor Poole of the American Embassy.

Levine, who had just arrived in Berlin, seemed eager to accept the offer at once. Chamberlin said he would consider it and give an answer later.

HARVARD MAN AND RADIO TO "SHADOW" ECLIPSE

LUNA WILL HIDE OUT JUNE 15

Canada Will Get Good View But Hub May Sleep Through It All

Thanks to the radio and the ingenuity of Prof. Willard J. Fisher of the Harvard Observatory, a new chapter will be written into the astronomical ledger of creational wonders after June 15.

For 22 minutes between 4:13 and 4:35 on Wednesday morning New England will be without the light of the moon, in all probabilities New Englanders will be fast asleep, but in Canada where the frozen wastes of the Far North tempt only the courageous an amateur band of observers will be looking heavenward to catch a glimpse of the moon as it creeps into the complete shadow of the earth.

KEEPING TABS ON MOON.

Uncle Sam's weather bureaus, wireless stations, and mail facilities have been brought into play. Keeping tabs on the wanderings of the moon will be a co-operative North American affair, the principals in the human playlet, the unknown friends of the Canadian colds.

The radio brings this special interest to scientists, Professor Fisher said today.

"There have been eclipses before and the moon and the sun and the earth in their elusive positions have been carefully noted and pictured," he said. "But never before has it been possible to enlist those in inaccessible lands to record their observations.

"Most eclipses have followed watery courses and into regions where no observations could be recorded. Now we have the chance of observing and recording the earth's atmosphere in relation to an eclipse in places as remote from civilization as the Arctic regions.

ASSISTANTS COACHED.

Mr. Fisher has coached his far-distant assistants for the past four months in just what they can do to help him. He has broadcast instructions to them every Saturday morning at 10 a. m. and they have "listened in" to the following:

"Please report conditions of sky overhead and all around. Distribution of color and glows; distributions, species and quantities of clouds; if convenient, the temperature, barometric pressure and direction and velocity of the wind. Please note that a completely overcast sky is as interesting and important for the present purpose as an entirely clear one."

RAT SLAIN IN BATTLE BY PIGEON

Bird Wins Grim Struggle With Preying Rodent In Courthouse Nest

Mother love, whose surgings and sacrifices differentiate naught between species or orders of life, spurred a frantic mother pigeon on to kill a huge rat today in Pemberton square, as the thieving rodent, with a fledgling in its mouth, ran along a telephone wire high above the street.

Fluttering frenziedly, first above and then at one side of the rat, which, in ordinary circumstances, she would have feared and fled from, the mother pigeon stabbed at the nest robber with her beak until, cut and bleeding, the defeated animal tipped from his wire and plunged to the pavement—dead.

The battle of mother love was witnessed from the street by many score of pedestrians on their way in and out of the Suffolk County Courthouse, in front of which it was fought.

CHEERS FOR THE VICTIM.

At windows of the high buildings in the quadrangle, staid lawyers, their girl stenographers, male clerks, court officials and employes of stores and shops, hung over the sills when the word flashed that a stirring fight was taking place on the wire.

And there was a vociferous cheer went up when the slinking, gray-scaled animal rolled off the thin strand, clawed frantically the air —and went hurtling down, turning over and over.

The rat, one of the largest ever seen in the vicinity, apparently emerged from the abandoned police headquarters building. As it streaked on a path along the network of wires pigeons took alarm and fluttered off in a cloud of beating wings.

MOTHER LOVE WINS.

But one wheeled and flew back in a hard, swift line. The rat had gained her nest on the roof of the probation annex, had seized a squeaking fledgling and was starting out over the wire again.

The battle was on—and mother love won.

SAYS FRIZONE SLEW 'IN FEAR'

Salem, June 9 (A.P.).—Inspector Vorchees Remsen, of the Lynn police, testified today in the trial of John Frizone for murder of his wife, Josephine, at their home, No. 296 Chatham street, Lynn, October 26, that Frizone came to the police station after the shooting.

He had a gun in his hand from which one cartridge had been exploded. The defendant said, "Here I am" and, according to the inspector, declared he had killed his wife because she sent him out of the house and he "was afraid of their boy."

"I sent the boy out and asked my wife, 'How long is this life going to last?' the witness said Frizone added. "You drive me out and I will kill you. She pushed me and I fired one shot. She fell dead at my feet."

WIFE KILLS HIM FOR RIVAL

Glens Falls, N. Y., June 9 (I.N.S.).—Mrs. Alice Frasier, 42, of South Horicon, N. Y., said by police to have confessed poisoning her husband because he objected to a rival, was in Warren county jail today in Lake George charged with first degree murder.

Stephen Baker, 51, the rival named in the alleged confession, was held as an accessory. He denied complicity in the death of Mrs. Frasier's husband, Byron, 55. Both waived examination and await Grand Jury action.

In many respects the case parallels the Snyder-Gray murder.

BOSTON AMERICAN
BOSTON, THURSDAY, JUNE 9, 1927

Britain Didn't Need U. S. Aid in War---Gen. Haig

London, June 9 (A.P.).—The belief that the British armies would eventually have gained the victory in the World War even if the United States had not intervened is held by Field Marshal Earl Haig, commander-in-chief of the British expeditionary forces in France and Flanders from 1915 to 1919.

Addressing the British Empire Service League he strongly protested against some he described as the national tendency to belittle the part Great Britain played in winning the war. He referred grateful-eventually to the share of the Allies, but contended that although without America's intervention the result might have been delayed, it would have been the same.

The Field Marshal maintained that for the last eighteen months of the war the armies of the British Empire carried on their shoulders the main burden of the struggle and carried it to victory.

GARAGE HOLDUP MAN HUNTED

Worcester, June 9.—Charging that Ronald Forrest, 18, of L street, South Boston; Anthony Dominick, 20, of Winthrop street, Clinton, and Frederick G. Duessing, 23, of New York, held up a New York garage early last Monday, two New York detectives arrived in Worcester today to begin a search for two of the trio.

All three were arrested on the same morning in Worcester, Forrest charged with being a runaway and Dominick and Duessing with driving an automobile without license. Forrest and Dominick were bailed, but one appeared to bail Duessing and he is still in custody.

HIKE TO COAST BY NEWSBOYS

For the second time in three years two former Boston Evening American newsboys will begin a hike from coast to coast when Manuel Bender and Michael Hallinan of the South End leave City Hall Saturday on the long grind. The youths, one a tripper, will sing their way across the continent, as they did before.

N. Y. FIFTH AVENUE BUS UPSET IN CRASH; 2 DEAD

New York, June 9 (A.P.).—Two men were killed, another is not expected to live, and a score of other persons were taken to hospitals when a Fifth Avenue bus overturned after colliding with an automobile at Fifth Avenue and 65th street.

About 40 passengers were in the bus. Those on top were thrown to the street, while those in the vehicle were thrown on top of each other. Five ambulances supplemented by taxicabs and passing automobiles, took the injured to hospitals.

FULLER URGED TO NAME DAMREN TO DANA'S POST

Governor Fuller is being urged to appoint Kenneth Damren of the Commission of Administration and Finance office as Civil Service Commissioner. The appointment of the present commissioner, Payson Dana, expired several months ago and he has since been a holdover in that office.

PURCHASER OF SLAIN GIRL'S WATCH TELLS OF SEEING RING, TOO

ROBBERY MOTIVE OF BARBER SUSPECT, POLICE SAY

Sunday of the dead girl is missing, pointing more clearly than ever, in the opinion of the authorities, to robbery as one of the prime motives of the fiendish crime.

PIECING EVIDENCE.

Piecing their evidence together in a day of feverish activity, State detectives William Murray, John Stokes and Richard Griffin, together with Chief Sydney Smith and other officers of the local force, held a brief conference and announced that within a short time they would probably broadcast the name and description of the man now sought.

They have not yet relinquished their surveillance of other possible suspects in the case.

The little diary of the dead girl's, excerpts from which were given today to the Boston American by the police, constitute a statement of faith of the pretty victim.

REVEALS IDEALS.

This diary, found in the murdered girl's effects in the little pink and white bedroom above the photographer's studio, reveals by its selections of prose and poetry the ambitions and ideals of the victim of the sands.

Small in size and filled with entries in the girl's handwriting, the diary has proved a source of much interest to the police. The first nine pages of the little notebook contain the names and addresses of boys and girls that she knew. The first two of these nine pages were headed "important." The first name on the list was that of F. Michalski. This is the Teddy Michalski of Methuen, her sweetheart for more than two years, and who refused to marry her because he could not afford to.

Police eagerly scanned the nine pages of names and addresses in the hope that somewhere they would include an all-important clue that would put them on the trail of the slayer.

The rest of the diary was filled with the inner thoughts and ambitions of a working girl who longed for the high ideals in life and who laboriously jotted down such writings, either in prose or rhyme, as appealed to her and which she wished to remember.

Stella Kale apparently was a girl of ambitions who hoped to make her way in life, and she had set ideals on a high plane and was endeavoring to keep them there. Her jottings down covered a wide range and showed that the girl was a reader of sorts. She even found some inspiration still in the nursery rhymes, for prominent among the selection she chose was a verse from "Mary's Little Lamb."

FEW CLUES IN DIARY.

The girl thought a great deal about personality it appeared, for several of the selections in the little notebook were based on this subject, while others revealed a searching of the innermost recesses of the soul. Stella Kale must have been a young woman who lived at times much within herself, a police official remarked carefully reading the diary from cover to cover.

Though the diary did not yield much in the way of clues to the girl's slaying, the police at Salisbury Beach found plenty of other business to keep them occupied in their search for the slayer.

Seek $20,000 from Town

Two suits totalling $20,000 damages against the town of Norwood were filed in Dedham Superior Court. Eva H. Pelham seeks to collect $15,000 and George W. Pelham asks for $5,000 for injuries which they allege to have received when an automobile overturned.

Mother Sobs at Grave of Slain Girl

Lawrence, June 9—Bells atop Holy Trinity Church in Avon street tolled an echo to a heartbroken mother's sobs today as the body of Stella Kale, victim of an undiscovered fiend, was borne to its grave.

The church was filled to capacity and 500 persons, unable to gain admittance, stood outside its doors as Mrs. Stanley Pomikala, the mother, in a state of near collapse and assisted by her husband and children, followed a white casket down the aisle.

Solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. Francis Wilejto, who also read the committal service at the grave in St. Mary's Cemetery.

Although sobbing and moaning, the murdered girl's mother bore up bravely, but the scars left by the sudden tragedy that snuffed out the life of the pretty 21-year-old girl were plainly evidenced in the faces of all the family.

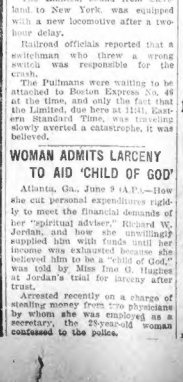
Only a few funeral cars followed the white hearse from the Pomikala house in High street to the church and from the church to the cemetery by request of the parents of the dead girl. According to an old custom the church bells tolled their dirge as the funeral cortege arrived at the church and as it departed.

'GRANNY,' 100, O.K.'S FLAPPERS, HITS DRY LAW

Pittsfield, N. H., June 9 (A.P.)—Girls today are all right, despite abbreviated skirts, in the opinion of Mrs. Elizabeth Freese of this town who today celebrated her 100th birthday. Short skirts do not mean that girls are bad, she says.

"Grandma" Freese, as she is known, is opposed to prohibition and doubts that the dry law will ever be a success. She is also opposed to smoking.

Up for 51 Hours



AFTER NEW "ENDURANCE AIR RECORD" Photo above shows Mrs. Frances Kelly hoisting a newspaper to her husband, Alvin, survivor of the Titantic wreck, who is perched on the flagpole of the St. Francis Hotel, Newark, N. J. Lower photo shows Kelly himself. He will fast up there for eight days, his object being to attain a degree of fame and some money. Last year in Kansas City he stayed up a pole nine days, he claims. He had been up 50 hours at noon.

HOW SLAIN GIRL LOOKED OUT ON THE WORLD

The following passage taken from the diary of Stella Kale show how the slain girl looked on life and the world.

PERSONALITY—Is it your asset or liability?

Personality is one or the other, according to what quality predominates. Study your liabilities and begin to change them one by one. Man is only one-tenth conscious art, or git. What he may become should he use all his vital forces will be determined by no one but God, Himself. It pays in happiness, in success, in financial gain, to have a winning personality. Get the wisdom. Stop wishing. Get to work.

The Garden of the Soul.

If your life is crowded with fear, affirm courage. If you lack confidence, affirm confidence. If you are rich, affirm wealth. We must take out from the garden of the soul every weed of worry, anger, grief, fear, and doubt, planting the seed of trust, love, joy, courage and faith.

THE WORLD LOVES A WINNER

No matter the task that is set you,
No matter how hard it may seem,
If you will just start in, I'll bet you
Will finish it up, eyes agleam.
"Old Trouble" was made but to banish
Just tackle the job with a grin,
And all the hardship will vanish,
And nothing can stop you—you'll win.

Don't mind what the Doubters may tell you,
Who say that you'll fail in th' end.
Don't let the "Quick Quitter" quell you,
For you're a "Go-Getter," my friend.
Just stick out your chin with a chuckle,
And throw out your chest with a verve,
And down to that fearsome task buckle,
And prove you're a fellow with nerve.
The task may seem hard e'er you try it,
And look like a heart-breaking thing,
But if you will laugh and defy it,
Its "hard" bug-a-boo will take wing.
No matter how others may view it,
Who tell you you "can't" when you "can,"
Just tackle the thing and you'll Do it.

Man Who Thinks He Can Will Win

The diary of Stella Kale, slain on the sands of Salisbury Beach last Sunday night, abounds with quotations and rhymes that the girl jotted down when they struck her fancy. These quotations vividly show the ambitions and ideals of the girl who was killed, fighting desperately. Excerpts from this diary are printed herewith exclusively in the Boston Evening American

(FROM THE BOSTON UNIVERSITY NEWS)

If you think you're beaten, you are.
If you think you dare not, you don't.
If you'd like to win but you think you can't
It's almost a cinch you won't.
If you think you'll lose, you're lost;
For out in the world we find
Success begins with a fellow's will,
It's all in the State of Mind.

If you think you're outclassed, you are;
You've got to think big to rise.
You've got to be sure of yourself before
You can ever win a prize.
Life's battles don't always go
To the stronger man.
But soon or late the man who wins
Is the one who thinks he can.

And prove you're a WINNER—a man.

A WORTHY IDEAL

To live as gently as I can,
To be, no matter where, a man,
To take what comes, of good or ill,
And then should failure come to me,
To cling to faith and hence still,
To do my best and let that stand.
The record of my brain and hand.
And then should failure come to me,
Still work and hope for victory;
To have no secret place wherein
To stoop unseen to shame or sin.
To live undaunted, unafraid,
Of any step that I have made,
To be without pretence or shame,
Exactly what men think I am.

GOOD ADVICE

There lived an old owl,
Up in the oak;
The more he saw, the less he spoke.
The less he spoke
The more he heard,
So why couldn't we be
Like that wise old bird.

NITRO KILLS 2 IN BLAST

Butler, Pa., June 9 (A.P.)—Two men were killed instantly and twenty other persons were hurt, some seriously when a truck load of nitroglycerine exploded on the main highway at Lick Hill, five miles from Butler, today. Three Lick Hill residences were destroyed and fifteen others damaged.

Frank Greer of Oil City, Pa., driver of the truck, and an unidentified man accompanying him, were killed. Two unidentified men, walking on the highway and occupants of Lick Hill houses were injured.

U. S. WARNS OF SOVIET TRADE

London, June 9 (I. N. S.)—Charges made by Soviet Russia of plots against Soviet leaders, fostered by British citizens, were described today by the foreign office as "childish and a sign of weakness."

Washington, June 9 (I.N.S.).—Despite the policy of American neutrality in the British-Russian break, American business men who visioned big profits in the Soviet market unofficially have been advised to "go slow."

"Take the cash and let the credit go" apparently is the attitude of the government in dealing with what is characterized as "an unlimited market for everything but with limited purchasing ability."

100 IN BOSTON TRAIN WRECK

Mass., one wrist severely cut and the other sprained.

All three were able to transfer to their sleeping cars, along with the rest of the passengers, and resumed their trip eastward.

The Limited, bound from Cleveland to New York, was equipped with a new locomotive after a two-hour delay.

Railroad officials reported that a switchman who threw a wrong switch was responsible for the crash.

The Pullmans were waiting to be attached to Boston Express No. 46 at the time, and only the fact that the Limited, due here at 11:41, Eastern Standard Time, was traveling slowly averted a catastrophe, it was believed.

WOMAN ADMITS LARCENY TO AID 'CHILD OF GOD'

Atlanta, Ga., June 9 (A.P.).—How she cut personal expenditures rigidly to meet the financial demands of her "spiritual adviser," Richard W. Jordan, and how she unwillingly supplied him with funds until her income was exhausted because she believed him to be a "child of God," was told by Miss Inez O. Hughes at Jordan's trial for larceny after trust.

Arrested recently on a charge of stealing money from two physicians by whom she was employed as a secretary, the 25-year-old woman confessed to the police.

READING DROPS PROBE OF THE DECIMO CLUB

Attorney General Arthur K. Reading has dropped his investigation of the Decimo Club. In a statement issued today, Reading said:

"Some time ago this office investigated the activities of the Club within this jurisdiction and found no evidence of any violation of our laws."

LEVINE PLANS $2,000,000 AIR LINE ACROSS THE ATLANTIC OCEAN

GERMANS PAY MORE HONORS TO YANKEE FLYING HEROES

but $2,000,000 isn't the millions Levine said "because I not only believe it would make hot tired it can be realized in a short time.

"We have a definite type of machine in mind which will carry 2000 pounds and can be assembled with more than one motor.

Chamberlin also said that they were intend to take back to Germany anything known in Germany.

As part of the development of trans-Atlantic aerial lines, Chamberlin thinks floating landing places in ocean at various parts of the ocean may be desirable for emergency landing, but he does not intend to attach much importance to this feature which has been discussed in the European press as an absolute necessity.

"The main thing," he said today, "is the constant development of more efficient machines which will carry a greater useful load in proportion to their weight, thereby making it possible to increase the speed of our passenger planes from 200 to 300 miles an hour."

BIG ENGINEERING PROBLEM.

"Ten years later, we probably may have a 20 pounds per horsepower ratio, that is, of from 500 to 600 miles. That is the expressed doubt whether all metal planes, such as are prevalent in Germany, were superior to machines with wooden frames for the wings.

"We can re-cover our wings with cloth from time to time, which makes them practically new, while once the metal is worn out, you must build a new plane," he said to the German correspondents.

"But isn't there greater danger of fire with wooden planes?" one asked.

Chamberlin smiled, and replied: "When gas blows up, it's out, no matter whether you are on metal or wood."

The trans-Atlantic pilot does not think that a non-stop flight around the world is out of the realm of possibility, but that it is a long way off.

"That is taking in a lot of space," he laughingly replied when questioned as to the feasibility of such an attempt.

"We would have to have a million or two dollars to play with to arrange for a flight covering more than 25,000 miles. Money and motors are needed, but I do not look for a non-stop round-the-world flight for some time."

New Honors are Paid to American Ocean Fliers

Berlin, June 9 (U.N.S.)—German admiration for the transatlantic fliers, Levine in Chamberlin and Charles A. Levine fails to diminish.

Crowds gathered about the American embassy today and voiced loud demands that the fliers make an appearance. Like a flock of sheep when two American newspapermen, who resemble the fliers in stature, left the embassy.

Both Chamberlin and Levine appeared rather tired today after the enthusiast welcome they received, were out on another round of entertainment.

Foreign Minister Stresseman entertained them at luncheon today, together with the entire staff of the American embassy. Secretary of State Schubert and Ministers Koch and Curtius.

The aeronautical society gave them a tea and tonight the Minister of Transport was to entertain at dinner.

WILL FLY TO VIENNA.

"We are indeed grateful for such honors and we are touched by the cordiality of the German people," said Levine today. "It is wonderful."

The big Bellanca monoplane Columbia is in perfect condition and will be used by Chamberlin and Levine for traveling around Europe before their return home.

Their first flight will begin Sunday, when they set out for Vienna, having accepted the invitation of the Austrian government to visit that capital. They will stop off for a few hours in Munich on the way.

It is possible that the airmen may visit Rome and maybe Budapest before their return here to greet their wives.

Many fresh honors are in store for Chamberlin and his flying companion before they set out to "swing round the European circle" in the Columbia on Sunday.

They will be made honorary citizens of Berlin by the Municipal Council and it is likely that streets will be named after them and after the monoplane Columbia, by the grateful aldermen.

One newspaper has suggested that the German Admiralty place a cruiser at their disposal for the trip home if they decide against flying.

MAY OFFER WARSHIP

It is unlikely, however, that this suggestion will be carried into effect, owing to information from Washington that the United States government probably will offer a warship for the voyage to America.

The length of the Americans' stay in Europe is problematical.

Chamberlin is anxious to study European commercial aviation at first hand and Levine does not seem in any rush to get back to New York. In view of these circumstances their visit may last beyond a fortnight. Chamberlin is going to London, but his stay in that city will not be a lengthy one.

This afternoon the Americans were entertained by the Aero Club.

Friday will be a big day. They will be guests of the city at an official reception at the City Hall. Friday evening they will be guests of honor at a dinner given by Minister of Transport Koch.

Chamberlin will be in his element Saturday when he and Levine will be shown through the great plant of Lufthansa, Germany's foremost commercial aviation concern.

Munich, June 9 (U.N.S.)—Having heard that Clarence Chamberlin and Charles A. Levine will arrive here on Sunday for a few hours' visit, Munich is planning to attempt to convince the fliers they were wrong in asking for Pilsener beer.

Munich holds that its beer is superior to Pilsener and the Mayor plans to take them to the Seidel Herbrau Haus.

38,000 Hub Children Ask Lindy to Talk Through WEEI

Because they look upon Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh as one of their Big Brothers, the 38,000 children who belong to the Boston Edison Big Brother Club sent a telegram to Washington today, inviting him to address them through Station WEEI when he comes here.

The telegram was sent by Bob Emery, "Big Brother of WEEI," on behalf of his host of kids.

Simultaneously, today Captain Wurpts of the North German Lloyd liner Bremen, out of New York, June 7, cabled back that when passing the U. S. Cruiser Memphis, with Lindbergh on board, the liner radioed felicitations on behalf of all on board.

Lindbergh immediately radioed a reply thanking the officers, crew and passengers for their message.

BREAK RECORDS IN NEWSPAPERS TO HAIL 'LINDY'

Washington, June 9 (A.P.)—Probably never in history have American Press Associations and newspapers made such elaborate arrangements to report an event as they have for the return of Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh and his official reception by President Coolidge.

Long before the Memphis reaches the Virginia capes, an army of journalists, feature writers and reporters will swing into action, augmented rapidly as the cruiser passes up the Potomac and finally delivers her hero to the official reception committee at the Washington Navy Yard.

The vanguard will fly one hundred miles to sea on naval planes to meet the Memphis and then back to land to report the reception of the flier by his fellow aviators of the Army and Navy.

WILL BOARD MEMPHIS.

Still other writers will speed out in destroyers, to add their output of the grist of millions of words which for more than sixty hours will test the capacity of a greater portion of the network of telegraph and telephone wires of the country, as well as the government radio facilities.

There will be more newspaper men to board the Memphis inside the capes and still others to follow her up the bay in planes. On Saturday the "story" will be in the hands of nearly 500 men and women who make up the Washington corps of the newspaper correspondents.

Long before the Memphis noses her way into the Anacostia River, press association men will be at the navy yard with direct telephone wires opened in their offices to flash the arrival and to dictate the running story of the reception there.

WILL GIVE PEN PICTURE.

Others stations along Pennsylvania avenue will give the picture of the eager thousands as they greet the air hero and upwards of two hundred will be on the official reception stand at the Washington Monument grounds to report the decoration and the speech making by the President and Lindbergh. In addition to the news writers at the ceremony, more than 1,500 photographers will train their cameras on the flyer.

WARSHIPS PUT TO SEA TO GET LINDBERGH

the harbor to avoid crowds. He also asked that Col. Lindbergh ship the "Spirit of St. Louis" by train, with the wings off, for use in the parade that is to be held in Lindbergh's honor.

When Lindbergh replied that he would fly his own plane, Whalen sent him this message:

"Sorry to disagree with you, but you will complicate New York's plans if you fly to Miller Field in your own plane. Police commissioner wishes me to emphasize that the police problem in connection with the city's plans for your welcome is a difficult one, and joins with me in requesting you to reconsider your present intention to use your own plane."

The decision to switch Colonel Lindbergh's landing from Miller Field to the harbor followed a conference at which it was figured that 2,000 police and 1,500 soldiers would be required to guard the route of Colonel Lindbergh's parade from Miller Field to the pier at Staten Island, where he would board the municipal reception tug Macom to be brought to Battery Park where the Manhattan parade will start.

As the full 7,000 of city police will be needed to hold back crowds in Manhattan, it was thought a better plan to have Colonel Lindbergh land in the harbor in an amphibian plane.

Lindy Invited to $25,000 Flight, Dallas to Hong Kong

Washington, June 9 (A.P.)—An invitation is waiting here for Lindbergh to participate in a Dallas (Tex.) to Hongkong flight.

Senator Mayfield of Texas has the invitation. The flight, which carries a prize of $25,000, is sponsored by William E. Easterwood, of Dallas, in commemoration of Lieutenant Jerau Easterwood, who planned a New York-to-Paris non-stop flight, but was killed in a crash in Panama before he could attempt it. Two stops would be permitted, one at Honolulu and one at either Guam or Manila.

Woman Says 'Lindy' Is Marvel as Diplomat

"Lindbergh has made the French people forget that life for them has become difficult and dear; that there were petty and annoying questions over the huge debts they owe to America."

In such vein does an American woman in Paris, friend of a New Hampshire woman, write back to the "States" of the charm and simplicity and the charm-in-simplicity of Charles A. Lindbergh, plain youth of Yankeeland, who dropped out of the skies of France and into the hearts of Frenchmen—the best ambassador America has ever had.

Ethel de Vaurousseel, writing from No. 17 Boulevard de la Madeleine in Paris, indicates in her letter that she looked well upon Lindbergh in Paris through the eyes of an American and that she discovered her one emotion to be amazement over his spontaneous achievement in diplomacy.

"It is extraordinary what that boy has done," she writes. "The flight itself, of course—superb. But what is extraordinary is that it should have been that type of young American who happened to be able to accomplish a great social feat and then go through the diplomatic, social and literary boats which have followed, without making a single break. It never a single act which by his worst enemy could be criticized.

"Everything Lindbergh has said has been perfect, all that he has written has been right; his donations and generosities have been made in just and proper spot and time.

"I watched him pass yesterday (May 26) in an open automobile with Herrick and other dignitaries, down the Champs Elysees. Two thousand police lined the entire route to keep the crowds on the sidewalks. But the people broke through, rushed across the broad thoroughfare with outstretched hands just to touch him, to touch the auto he was in, to approach, get nearer, come close enough to see this wonder-hero, this boy god who arrived from the clouds.

"All of us who here have had happen what had not happened since the days of the war—French and say, 'Allow me to congratulate you, as an American, on the feat of your countryman—such an admirable and marvelous accomplishment is'est merveilleux!'

"I expect that the 400,000 American tourists who are scheduled to come abroad this Summer owe a big debt to Charles Lindbergh. Some there are who at times are boastful of their own country and complaining about others. All this will be pardoned them now."

ARREST. FACES CHAMBERLIN IF HE FLIES HERE

should Clarence Chamberlin, pilot of the transatlantic flight from America to Germany, decide to fly back to this country, he will face arrest and prosecution should he land at the Boston airport or anywhere else in Massachusetts.

Chamberlin, in 1922, was blacklisted as a pilot by Registrar of Motor Vehicles Frank A. Goodwin, at the request of Porter Adams of Boston, one of the governors of the National Aeronautical Association of the United States.

The blacklist still sands. This means that should Chamberlin, on his return to this country, accept any of the many invitations to come to Boston, he will have to reach this city on foot or in an automobile or railroad train, for the airways over the Commonwealth are still closed to him.

Mr. Adams was successful in having Lieutenar Goodwin bar the airhero from this State, following a flight Chamberlin and a passenger made over the Yale bowl during the Army-Yale game in 1922, at which Mr. Adams was a spectator.

Following this game Mr. Adams wrote Mr. Goodwin: "This man did some very reckless flying. I have seen to it that the man is barred from the aviation field at Hartford next week, and I have written to Washington asking that if he is a member of the Reserve Officers he be severely reprimanded.

"I suggest that you put this man's name on the list, for in the event that being barred from Hartford he might attempt to fly in Massachusetts."

CHAMBERLIN'S HOME TOWN IS PROUD OF HIM

Following is the first of a series of articles on Clarence Chamberlin, his parents, and his life in his home town of Denison, Ia., where "Chink" was born and raised, and which he still calls his home.

Denison, June 9.—Denison wants the world to know that Clarence Chamberlin, latest of the aviators to span the Atlantic on a westbound, a new world's long distance flight, was born and reared in Denison, and that his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Chamberlin, his sister, Mrs. Max Moffitt, and her husband and their two children still live in Denison.

But while the town is going wild with enthusiasm over the latest feat of its harum-scarum son, the parents are making every effort to keep both themselves and their son's latest feat out of public print.

They are aghast at the enthusiasm which is being shown over their "Baby Boy," and cannot understand why correspondents insist on asking them questions from early morning until late at night.

PHONE KEEPS RINGING.

"Why," said Mrs. Chamberlin, after her son landed in Germany, "there have been more long distance telephones put in for us here at Denison in the last three days, than have been put in for Denison residents all year."

"Calls come in by the dozens from Omaha, Des Moines, Kansas City, St. Louis and Chicago, and even two from New York, to say nothing of the newspapers and friends in the many small Iowa towns, who want to offer congratulations.

"We are trying to keep out of the limelight, because we know Clarence wants us to," said Dad Chamberlin.

"We received a message from our boy's wife the morning he hopped-off asking us to be sure and keep away from the public, because Clarence would hate to have a lot of stories printed about us all."

Correspondents have practically camped on the Chamberlin doorstep since Saturday morning, eager to listen to every word that the family might say, in hopes that they might divulge some new angle that has not been uncovered, concerning the newest "Magellan-of-the-Air."

HE WOULD BE ANGRY.

"I cannot see why these men ask us so many questions, like: 'What hour was your son born?' Are you proud of him?' Did he go with the girls when he was a kid? Did you ever spank him? How often did he write home? What does he say? Was he ever put in jail? Where did he get the money to buy his motorcycle and automobile? And a thousand others.

"We know people don't want to hear these things," said his mother, "and Clarence would be very angry if we did tell."

But the constant persuasion of more than a score of visiting correspondents in Denison is too much for the Chamberlin family, and from time to time they have given out bits of their son's life, from that 4 o'clock on the morning of November 11, 1893, when Clarence was born, which has finally included his every move in the sporting line until he hopped off on his flight of June 4, 1927.

And coupled with the life story from the parents is the story which his sister, Ethel, tells, and then his classmates, business associates and his many friends, who still live around Denison.

WORKS ON WATCHES.

And from them all comes the story, that Clarence was destined to be a worker on machinery and electrical devices.

His first contact with "oils and wheels" came in his father's watch repairing shop, which the elder Chamberlin has run in Denison for nearly 40 years.

When just a wee bit of a baby, his dad gave him unrepairable watches to play with. This practice continued until the "baby" was quite old.

It was a particular pastime of his father's to take his boy to his watch repairing shop, and let him tinker with old watches, on the pretense that he wanted Clarence to repair them.

His dad says now, that it was his ambition to make a famous watchbuilder of his son, but he was forced to give up this desire, when the "young feller" was getting on toward fifteen, and he forsook his father's watch repairing business for the bigger wheels, that were found with motorcycles and later with automobiles.

During his grade school days, Clarence used to run down to his dad's repair shop and help him with the watch repairing business and as early as ten years of age, he was able to handle the minor repair work.

RUTH SNYDER SMILE AMAZES ATTENDANTS IN PRISON

By RUTH BROWN SNYDER

CHAPTER 15

Copyright, 1927, King Features Syn. Inc.

THE matrons in Queens County Jail used to marvel at me because through the days and nights during my fierce trial, before it and after my conviction and sentence—even on that Friday the Thirteenth when Judge Scudder read over me the death penalty—I smiled.

Here in Sing Sing, where the atmosphere is even more grim, where everything is supposed to be stilled and set beyond even the thrill of suspense or the inspiration of hope, the hardened officials again shake their heads in amazement that this Snyder woman can smile.

In Queens Jail, one night, before I was convicted, the matrons rushed to my cell and tore a blanket from my hands. They thought I was choking myself on the corner of it. Nothing was further from my mind.

IMPULSE TO FLEE

The impulse to fight always was and will be to the end in my blood.

All my ancestors on both sides were courageous in the face of great hardships and handicaps.

There is something in the instinct for battle that seizes one, even when downed and vanquished.

I am surrounded with steel bars and steel gratings. Walls a dozen feet thick and two dozen feet tall, bar me from freedom or a chance for freedom. I know I could win. But I still want to fight.

I want to fight in me what I can of my name in the world. I must be charged with the sins I did. I shall not be burning with those I did not do. I want to fight to leave some tatters of decency behind so that my child and my mother may not need to hold their innocent heads as deep in shame over me.

I want to fight for Lorraine, to see that she gets safe guardianship of my dear, sweet sober, who loves her and who she loves, who has been a mother to her more than I have been; I don't want her to be raised by relatives of my late husband, who, though they are estimable people will always feel that she is a child of the woman who slew their kin, who will look to find in her the inherited tendencies of a mother they despise, and who will never let her forget who and what her mother was.

I want to fight to see that Lorraine gets the insurance and the house and what remains of the Snyder estate. Whatever her mother has done or has not done, she is entitled to the Snyder assets. Leaving out her guilty mother, she is still the daughter of her father—and he has not been accused of any guilt, so she was his heir before she was mine, and from that standpoint should not be cheated of her heritage.

SEEKS ONLY TO ATONE.

I want to fight for a retrial as I can fight again for my life.

I want to fight for a chance to stay on earth and atone by repentance, sacrifice and humility for some of my errors and misdeeds.

My mother, a mild but intensely brave woman, is fighting for me with all she has. She, too, being of the same flesh and blood as I am, wants me to fight.

And my daughter, being of the flesh and blood of us also, I hope she will grow up a fighter.

Fate only knows how long and how often and how far she will have to face the sneers and insults of this cruel world for me. I hope she will lift her pretty eyes up, hold her sweet face forward—and fight. She has a bitter struggle against unspeakable odds before her, poor baby. But if I have my wish she will fight through it, not crumple under it. Humility is godlike, but humiliation is a red-hot and searing human weapon.

Lorraine has nothing to be ashamed of. She didn't pick me for a mother. But heartless people will try to make her suffer for my sins. Against them I hope she will show courage—not impertinent and flippant audacity, but true, quiet, solid courage.

have claimed for years that Gould was suppressed as a witness by the government, and that his testimony was not wanted because it would free Sacco and Vanzetti of the charge of murdering Paymaster Parmenter and his guard.

BASIS FOR NEW TRIAL.

It was an affidavit made by Gould, upon which the Sacco-Vanzetti counsel based their pleas for a new trial for the men. This plea was denied by Judge Webster Thayer.

According to Gould's affidavit, he went to South Braintree on the afternoon of April 15, 1920, to sell razor-sharpening paste to the employes of the Slater-Morrill shoe factory.

Alighting from the train at the South Braintree station he was asked when the shoe workers would be paid.

"There goes the paymaster and his guard now. Follow them," the station attache replied.

Gould followed Parmenter and his guard down the road. When he was near the factory he heard the sound of shots and saw the two men shot down. Then the robber car sped toward him. According to the affidavit, the man who had done the shooting was climbing from the rear of the car to the front seat as the car passed by.

FIRED REVOLVER.

As the car passed, Gould claims the driver pointed a revolver at him and fired, the bullet going through his overcoat.

Gould claims that neither Sacco nor Vanzetti were in the car. He claims that after he walked to where the bodies of the victims lay, Chief of Police J. J. Gallivan of the Braintree police questioned him and took his name and address, but that he was never called as a witness in the case.

Henry Delafano of South Braintree, another witness in the case, was also examined by the Governor and Lieutenant-Governor today.

west Mounted Police, have been called upon.

The one spot where the total eclipse can be observed most completely, at the edge of Baker Lake, the "Mounties" have a radio station, At Chesterfield Inlet, a few miles away, on Hudson Bay, there is a post of fur traders, so vividly to be remembered by dint of the movies.

COPPER COLORED MOON.

At Good Hope, Rampart House, Port Harrison and points eastward to Nova Scotia, keen observers will be on the lookout for the copper-colored moon, weather permitting, to add their bit to the progress of astronomy.

"The value of this eclipse is meteorological rather than astronomical," Dr. Fisher explained. "Atmosphere affects the tides, and thus ships at sea are concerned.

"Whether or not the eclipse will be visible depends wholly upon the weather conditions. This affords the possibility of connecting the phenomena of the moon with the earth's atmospheric conditions along the sunset-sunrise line, determining thereby the general motion of the moon.

"In Boston the eclipse will occur in the southwest heavens very low in the sky. If it is favorable weather the moon will be copper-colored since the refracted light will have no thick layer of atmosphere to penetrate.

"Thus the importance of this lunar eclipse will be embodied in the results of correlating weather conditions and the lumination of the moon We couldn't have done it five years ago. The radio has made it possible."

lowed to Denver from New York city several months ago and when she left Denver was trailed to Hollywood. She hinted also of some "trouble" in New York several months ago, but did not disclose its nature.

This was the third night the woman had been aroused by knocks. Yesterday afternoon, she told police she had a misunderstanding with a man whose identity was not revealed. When she heard the knock she thought he had come to apologize. She opened the door and was seized in the "terrible long arms" of the unidentified stranger, she avowed.

After the attack Miss Dore called an acquaintance who notified police. She was removed to a hospital.

She said she was unable to throw any light on the mystery of the letter "K." The slashing was done with a safety razor blade which her attacker took from his pocket after throwing her on the bed. She attempted to fight off her assailant but was powerless in his grasp, she said.

CURLED HANDS

A story of love and intrigue in which the daring of youth is pitted against the power and prestige of aristocracy.

"Curled Hands" handles the subject of guilty love without fear or favor. It tells what EVERY MAN AND WOMAN WANTS TO KNOW about this age-old problem.

GEORGIA DOCTOR FREED OF PEONAGE CHARGE

Athens, Ga., June 9 (A. P.).—W. R. King, former Oglethorpe County plantation owner and physician, was acquitted by a jury in Federal court here of a charge of peonage.

The physician specifically was charged with having held a negro, Dan Dorsey, in a state of bondage. The indictment was returned last December, after Department of Justice agents had made an investigation.

TWO CROSSINGS IN FRAMINGHAM DANGEROUS

Two grade crossings in Framingham one on the Boston-Worcester State road, the other on a highway used continually by State police on assignments, should be listed on the roll of death traps, residents of that city declare.

Hiding behind a curve in the road which forms the main traffic artery west from Boston is the Pleasant street crossing. When a train is approaching a guard steps out into the path of vehicles holding a sign that warns them of danger.

Motorists coming from Framingham toward Boston are warned in this fashion, and if they see the signal in time can come to a safe stop. Danger lurks in the contingency that the guard may not be seen, or that the motorist is driving too fast for a short stop.

SHARP BEND IN ROAD.

On the other side of the crossing the road twists sharply. Traffic from Boston, west, must rely on fortune as far as warning of oncoming trains is concerned. The solitary guard with his signal is totally hidden until the motorist is fatally close to the tracks.

These are the hazards that confront travelers on a State highway.

At Framingham's other trap, the Belknap street crossing, conditions are just as perilous.

Fast freights of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, moving between Fall River and Lowell, are a continual menace because the crossing is insufficiently guarded.

In addition to the autoist, State police from Framingham barracks are in perpetual danger of death. These officers, often dispatched on "rush assignments" must take their lives in their hands every time they pass the Belknap street tracks.

STEEP HILL AND CURVE.

From Framingham the approach is a sharp curve combined with a steep climb. At the summit are the tracks. On the other side of the tracks the same conditions must be met—a hill with a sharp twist.

Warning signals are confined to weak-tongued bells placed on poles on each side of the tracks, and signs only a few yards away from the crossing itself.

State police and residents declare the warning bells can hardly be heard while an automobile motor is running, and that the signs are practically useless because of their proximity to the tracks.

George McGrath, who lives near this crossing, expressed the opinion that it was but a question of time before a serious smash-up occurred here.

"No machine, going at an ordinary rate of speed, could be stopped after it passed the curves on either side of the tracks," he said. "And with fast freights, speeding at ordinary rate in order to make a grade a half-mile further, the consequences of a crash would be obvious."

The Boston Evening American is anxious to reduce this peril as much as possible and calls on the public to help.

If you have any grade crossing in your neighborhood or elsewhere which you consider unnecessarily hazardous, or if you have had a personal experience, kindly forward such information to the Grade Crossing Editor of the Boston Evening American, No. 5 Winthrop square, Boston.

MOY TONG CHEW, ARBITER OF U. S. TONG WARS, DEAD

Chicago, June 9 (A.P.).—Moy Tong Chew, "the Green Dragon," nationally know arbiter of Tong wars, is dead, aged 82. Moy, also known as Hig Lung, spent most of his life here as a merchant and overseer of Chicago graduates, married Chinese college professors in Canton.

STUDENTS FLEE FIRE IN CAFE

Two hundred students of the Traymore Luncheon in Harvard Square, Cambridge, many of them Harvard students, fled to the street when fire broke out in the walls of the eating place during the noon rush, today.

The fire had burned up the walls for some time before it broke through into the restaurant. The room was filled with smoke.

It was a half hour before firemen extinguished the blaze.

ARTHUR SAPP TO HEAD ROTARY INTERNATIONAL

Ostend, June 9.—Arthur Sapp, of Huntington, Ind., today was elected president of the Rotary International without opposition.

"I feel that the highest International honor has been conferred upon me," President-elect Sapp said. "The Ostend convention is the greatest ever held, but we hope that next year's will be even better. I expect to push the extension of the Rotary movement in Germany."

Captain Robert Dollar, president of the Dollar Steamship Lines, Incorporated, will be guest of the New England Export Club of the Boston Chamber of Commerce at luncheon tomorrow.

START HUNT FOR NUNGESSER

St. John's, N. F., June 9 (A.P.).—The silver plated monoplane Jeanne D'Arc, which is to search for Nungesser and Coli, missing French airmen, circled over the city early today after being launched on the harbor from the Red Cross liner Silvia. The roar of the motor awakened hundreds of citizens.

After the flight the monoplane was taken to the air station at Quidi Vidi lake. Major P. Sidney Cotton, the pilot, said that a systematic search would be started over Newfoundland at once for the fliers.

GIRL BADLY INJURED BY PRINCETON BOY'S PLANE

New York, June 9 (A.P.).—A 13-year-old girl was in a Brooklyn hospital in a serious condition today, having been struck by an airplane piloted by George Lambert, captain of Princeton tennis' team, who bought the plane when automobiles were barred at the university.

Lambert, son of the owner of the Lambert Pharmacal Works, St. Louis, was flying from New Brunswick, N. J., to Curtiss Field, Long Island, when he was forced down on a vacant lot in Brooklyn by a shortage of gasoline. The girl was injured when the plane took off.

DEMAND SQUARE DEAL FOR BOYS

"Give the small boys a square deal and a chance" is the slogan of a movement that has been started to turn the Boston Common Playground over to boys under 14 years of age, each Sunday until 4 P. M.

The movement was started by Mrs. Ida Pilsted, matron of the Newsboys' Reading Room in the North End. Sunday after Sunday the matron saw the small newsboys driven from the baseball diamonds and playgrounds on the Common, by the bigger boys.

The little fellows, whose only time for play is Sunday, are forced into the streets, where their lives were constantly endangered by the Sunday flood of motor vehicles, she said.

PETERS, GOODWIN IN DRIVE.

Mrs. Pilsted enlisted the services of E. E. Keavin of the West End, a member of the circulation staff of the Boston Evening American, Mr. Keavin, in turn interested former Mayor Andrew J. Peters, president of the Boston Chamber of Commerce; Registrar of Motor Vehicles Frank A. Goodwin and others, all of whom agreed that the small boys should be given an opportunity to play undisturbed on the Common.

President Peters has taken up the matter with the Board of Park Commissioners while Registrar Goodwin has also enlisted actively in the campaign.

UP TO MAYOR NICHOLS.

The matter has been put up to Mayor Nichols for action but as yet no word has come from the Mayor's office.

If the plan is carried out, boys under 14 will be the only ones permitted on the playground on Sunday until 4 P. M. After that time the little fellows will have to give way to the older boys for the rest of the day.

PUPILS GIVE RECITAL IN BROOKLINE STUDIO

A piano recital by the younger pupils of Miss Mary Barnes was held at her studio, 1384 Beacon street, Brookline. Bernice Meyers of Commonwealth avenue, Brighton, played "Pixies' 'Good night Song" and cannonetta by M. Barnes. The others on the program were Adelaide and Alexandria Gates, Marion Lyman, Virginia Lapp, Elaine and Thomas Guthrie and Dorothy Lockhart.

MRS FULLER IS DEAD AT 103

Greater Boston's oldest resident and for years Everett's "famous old lady," Mrs. Abbie Loveland Fuller of No. 120 Linden street, Everett, died today at the home of her son, the Rev. Edward P. Fuller, with whom she lived.

Mrs. Fuller was born in Hartford in 1824 and educated in the public schools there. One of five children, she was the daughter of William and Clara James. On February 14, 1847, she married George W. Fuller, a leading clothier of Hartford. He died about twenty years ago.

In addition to her son Mrs. Fuller is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Hollis (Clara) Erving of Hartford; eight grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren. One of the granddaughters is Miss Abbie Loveland Fuller, an assistant professor at Smith College.

Rev. Mr. Fuller is pastor of the Glendale Baptist Church.

BRITAIN COOL TO BRIAND 'NO MORE WAR' PROPOSAL

London, June 9 (I.N.S.).—Great Britain is only lukewarm towards Foreign Minister Briand's proposals in France for "no more war" treaties.

Officials stated that such a treaty would have no immediate effect and it is not the policy of Great Britain to enter into treaties which do not have an immediate effect.

BETTY ALDEN'S SOCIETY COMMENT

Artist Colonies Slowly Assembling at Wonted Vantage Along the North Shore

SLOWLY DO THE ARTISTS GATHER AT THEIR favorite tarrying places along the North Shore. Welcome news to the painting fraternity is the coming for the Summer of Orlando Rouland to his Marblehead eyrie, the "Lookout" in "Lookout Court," perched high on one of the highest ridges in that rockbound old seaport. Mr. and Mrs. Rouland discovered the quaint architectural possibilities of "Lookout Court" several years ago, and immediately acquired it for their own.

THE COURT IS A CLUSTER OF OLD NEW England houses, of the sort that master hands built from hand hewn logs and fastened with hand made wooden pegs. Ship-shape rooms and twisting stairways, fanlights, many-paned windows and mellow gray shingles give evidence of their early American origin. The Roulands have restored these treasures to their original charming simplicity, and to make the measure complete have had added a studio workroom for Mr. Rouland that is a gem of antiquity.

IT FITS INTO THE "COURT" LIKE A JEWEL IN its setting. The Roulands scoured all New England to find ancient timbers and foundation stones and doorstones and hand made glass that would make the studio an authentic reproduction of old time mastercraftsmanship. They succeeded right royally. The place might have been fashioned by Marblehead builders way back in another century, so mellowed and ancient does it look. As a workroom for a genius it is a creation lovingly wrought and perfectly executed.

JUST BEFORE THE WEDDING GAIETIES ARE keeping Miss Rosamond Reed and William Townsend Snow in a whirl that ceases only as the first notes of the wedding march peal forth on Saturday. Miss Marian Morss, who is to be Miss Reed's sole attendant at Saturday's ceremonial, is hostess for the bride-elect and her intended at a large dinner this evening at the Country Club, just after the wedding rehearsal is gotten through with.

LAST EVENING THERE WAS A LARGE PARTY for Miss Reed, having as its hostesses Mrs. Joseph Nowell and Mrs. Daniel Frost Comstock. Mrs. Comstock was the former Miss Joan Barton, and became a bride herself in the selfsame church where Miss Reed and Mr. Snow plight their troth—the lovely Church of the Redeemer in Chestnut Hill. Mrs. Comstock was as handsome a bride as one could wish to see, statuesque and radiantly brunette. Miss Reed will be equally delightful to the eye, a graceful, lissom blonde.

PROVIDED THE VARIABLE GODS WHO CONTROL THE RAIN DROPS are kind to Miss Celia Sachs and send her fair skies on Saturday, she and Charles A. Robinson, Jr., will have a pretty, out-of-door, rustic wedding at "Shady Hill," the Sachs' home in Irving street, Cambridge. The bride-elect is one of the daughters of Professor Paul Sachs and Mrs. Sachs, and Mr. Robinson hails from Peekskill, New York, and as the "Junior" would indicate, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Robinson.

TO VARY THE SHOPPING ROUND WITH A REFRESHING CUP of tea, served by the hand of a Boston matron of high degree—such is the innovation pleasantly inaugurated for down-town Boston this week. And Madame Shopper hails the pleasant interlude with delight, judging from the numbers dropping into the Temple place branch of the Old Colony Trust Company of an afternoon. It may be that Mrs. Hugh Bancroft is at the tea tables there. Or it might be Mrs. T. Jefferson Coolidge.

Betty Alden

MRS. DANIEL F. COMSTOCK

With Mrs. Joseph Nowell she acted as a joint hostess at a party given in honor of Miss Rosamond Reed.

TODAY

do, asked for beer, and drank it. Mrs Ella A. Boole, president of the National Women's Christian Temperance Union, fears "that those two brave fliers, after their heroic flight, have undone much of the good which resulted from their trip by expressing a desire for beer."

It is difficult for Mrs. Boole and others to realize how thirsty two men can be, after flying forty hours without sleep, and in Germany ice water is practically unknown.

JACK PICKFORD pleasantly arranged to let Miss Marilyn Miller divorce him, and leaving for Paris, divorce bent, says, "Marilyn and I are perfectly friendly." They are just tired of being married to each other, that's all.

SUCH a condition shocks many. Others are shocked by the suggestion that men and women should continue living together after they cease to like, and even begin to hate each other.

Those that believe that marriages are made in Heaven will naturally object to their being ended in Paris.

WHOEVER does the thing a second time, no matter how well he does it, suffers by comparison. This applies to Levine and Chamberlin. But, if they carry out a plan they suggest, and fly back to the United States, they will be alone in their class, the only "round trip" Atlantic fliers.

THE PRESIDENT will call a special session of Congress for October, to take up the Mississippi flood disaster and the prevention question. The sooner prevention is discussed and arranged the better. The American Congress and people have a great faculty for forgetting—even a two-billion-dollar calamity and 700,000 people being made homeless.

RICH MEN suggested a $2,000,000 fund to be invested for Lindbergh, to take care of him the rest of his days. Lindbergh says he doesn't want it, rather believes he will be able to take care of himself the rest of his days.

It is difficult for many of us to imagine anything better than two million dollars except three million dollars. But Lindbergh has managed to find something better, in the excitement of real achievement.

E. N. HURLEY of Chicago suggests as a monument to Lindbergh the highest tower in the world, with a light on it, to guide airplanes and visible 200 miles away. It's a good suggestion to make, "Lead, kindly light," a practical part of earthly life in this flying age.

IN YEARS to come, air roads far above clouds will be marked at regular intervals by balloon lighthouses floating in the air, each with just enough "power" to keep it in the right place. The lighthouse keeper will be a navigator sticking to one place in the sky, with the North Pole his compass, and other instruments to keep him "on location."

FRANCE SEEKS NEW DEBT PACT

Paris, June 9 (A.P.).—Premier Poincare told the Chamber of Deputies today he hoped to get better debt settlement terms from the United States, particularly as he realized that the French Parliament would not ratify the accords with America and Great Britain in their present form.

The Premier said that was why he had made the "provisional" payments on the debt account—so as to keep free to renew negotiations.

His declaration came in the course of defense of a proposed contract to grant the French match monopoly to Svenska, a Swedish match corporation, that has offered to loan France $50,000,000.

Washington, June 9 (A. P.).—Secretary Mellon today declined to be drawn into a discussion of the French debt.

The Treasury on March 1 accepted the French offer to pay $10,000,000 on its unfunded $4,026,000,000 war debt without prejudice to ratification of the debt agreement by the American Congress and the French Parliament. This payment was made due on June 15.

As the American Debt Commission has gone out of existence, it is not clear here just how a revision could be brought about unless Congress acts on it.

WANTS BIG HALL IN BACK BAY

Kieran J Lowry, manager of the Boston Braves baseball team, announced today that he intends to erect a baseball park in the Back Bay district, to be used by the Braves and Red Sox baseball clubs.

"Although the Braves Field park has been open for a season we have had a hard time getting enough seats for the big games," said Lowry. "The Red Sox baseball park is also crowded on the days when the two clubs play there. We intend to build a baseball park in the Back Bay district that will be large enough to accommodate all baseball fans who want to see the games."

K. J. Lowry

Lowry said that the baseball park will be constructed on the Kenmore Square district, and will hold 40,000 persons. The baseball park will be built on land owned by Boston University, and will be held at the disposal of baseball clubs on Saturday night, following which the group will lease for 100 years.

Story of a Girl Who Asked That Life Should Pay Her in Full

In a romance touched with the glow of youth's first sweet love, Roen Ross, 18, and beautiful, promises to marry Michael Scott, gallant and joyous college lad. Roen has a job as secretary to James Burton, manager of a Kilby street insurance company, and is the support of her invalid mother, "Dearie," and her adored little brother, "Jackie." She and Michael plan to marry when both are free. Years of struggle pass: Roen's burdens grow. Burton, her employer, offers marriage. Dearie, seeing, in wealth the solution of all their difficulties, urges acceptance. Roen is faithful to Michael. The marriage becomes more indefinite through Dearie's long illness. The World War comes. Michael enlists. He and Roen plan to marry before he is sent. On the wedding day Michael is ordered off. They are heartbroken. Michael is gassed and returned to America. He gets a chance in South America and wires Roen to go with him. She cannot, owing to Dearie's illness. Michael goes alone. The following Spring he is returning for a visit. Roen waits at the pier—filled with joy. They will marry as soon as he docks. She is confronted with Michael's coffin. He had died that morning of fever. Roen sends Jackie to college. He brings the girl that he loves to the house, and Roen goes to their wedding.

From his letter Mr. R. M. Eastman, President, further summarizes as follows:

BUSINESS: Company is the largest printing establishment in the world engaged in the volume production of mail-order catalogs and magazines. It has acquired plant and business of Edward Langer Printing Co., Inc., New York, adding large Eastern plant to its existing capacity and further strengthening its leadership. Annual production about 358,000,000 catalogs and magazines. Customers include Montgomery Ward & Co., Sears, Roebuck & Co., Albert Pick & Co., Gimbel Brothers, and other national distributors. A contract has just been completed for printing of Pictorial Review, with circulation of over 2,000,000 monthly. Other magazines printed include Liberty, Red Book, System, Photoplay, and Judge; total circulation printed more than 14,000,000 monthly. From incorporation in 1893, with original capital of only $20,000, Company has grown to present position through 34 years of successful operation

PLANTS: Chicago plant, completed in 1925, contains over 500,000 square feet of floor space situated on 20 acres of land adjacent to Chicago & Northwestern Railway Belt Line at Diversey Avenue, Chicago. New York plant at Jamaica, Long Island, contains 330,000 square feet of floor space, adjacent to Long Island Railroad.

SECURITY: These Bonds will be secured by a first mortgage on all fixed assets of the Company owned or hereafter acquired (except assets acquired subject to existing or purchase money mortgages) and by pledge of 99.8% of capital stock of Edward Langer Printing Co. (which will continue to operate the New York plant) and entire capital stock of a subsidiary formed to own, unencumbered, all machinery in the Chicago plant. The mortgaged land, buildings and machinery alone have a book value of $7,003,961 and the machinery in the Chicago plant has a book value of $3,487,233, making a total book value for the property of $10,491,194. Actual value of this property based on independent appraisals is $12,858,040.

ASSETS: Total consolidated net tangible assets as of January 31, 1927, including proceeds of this financing and based upon conservative book values, are $13,697,366, representing 2.28 times total Bonds to be outstanding. Company has no indebtedness to banks, and current assets exceed 3½ times current liabilities.

EARNINGS: Throughout 34 years of existence Company has shown a profit in every year. Consolidated net earnings, after depreciation but before Federal Taxes, for year ended January 31, 1927, were $1,313,449, or nearly 4 times $330,000 annual interest requirement on Bonds to be outstanding. Such average net earnings for past 5 years, $1,032,214, exceeded 3.1 times this interest requirement.

PURPOSE OF ISSUE: Proceeds of these Bonds and of 100,000 shares of new stock offered to stockholders will be used for retirement of $4,093,000 outstanding bonds of W. F. Hall Printing Company and Edward Langer Printing Co., bearing 6½% interest, acquisition of capital stock of Edward Langer Printing Co., purchase of additional equipment, and increase in working capital.

SINKING FUND: Commencing 1930, sufficient to retire annually 3½% of all Series A Bonds issued.

PRINTING BONDS ARE OFFERED TO PUBLIC

Lee, Higginson & Co. have purchased and are making public offering of [illegible] 6% first mortgage 5½ per cent. collateral trust sinking fund gold bonds of the W. F. Hall Printing Co. The bonds, which are dated May 1, 1927, and due 1947, are priced at 99½ and interest, to yield over 5.54 per cent.

The W. F. Hall Printing Co. is the largest producer of mail order catalogs and magazines in the world. It operates a 20 acre plant, containing 500,000 square feet of floor space at Chicago and one with 330,000 square feet of floor space at Jamaica, Long Island. Its customers include Montgomery Ward & Co., Sears, Roebuck & Co., Albert Pick & Co., Gimbel Bros., Pictorial Review, Liberty, Red Book, System, Photoplay, and Judge, with total monthly circulation of over 14,000,000.

These bonds will be secured by first mortgage on all fixed assets of the company owned or hereafter acquired and by pledge of subsidiary company owning machinery in Chicago plant having aggregate book value of $10,491,194. Property has been independently appraised at $12,858,040. As of Jan. 31, 1927, the consolidated net tangible assets, including proceeds of this issue, represent 2.28 times total bonds, to be outstanding. Current assets exceed current liabilities 3.3 times and company has no bank indebtedness.

Throughout its 34 years of existence company has shown a profit each year. In year to Jan. 31, 1927, consolidated net earnings after depreciation but before Federal taxes were nearly four times annual bond interest, including this issue, proceeds of which will retire $4,093,000 6½ per cent. outstanding bonds of W. F. Hall Printing Co. and Edward Langer Printing Co., acquisition of capital stock of latter, purchase of additional equipment and provide increased working capital.

Hero in Own Town Weymouth Has Spirit Dan Howley Day

Ball Players' Home Athletes Kick In Insure Futures

By Nick Flatley

DAN HOWLEY DAY WILL REFLECT REAL SPIRIT

THE town of Weymouth is a real, live, up-and-coming community. They boys down that way don't do things by halves. When they have something to put across, they proceed to do that same thing with speed and eclat

Some short time ago they decided that Daniel Howley, their most famous native son, deserved a baseball day. Daniel, as you doubtless know, is managing the St. Louis Browns this year. He's the first Weymouth resident who ever sailed so high in the national pastime

Nick Flatley

The boys have been working on Daniel's party and there will be a lot of fun and excitement at the Fenway Saturday, the day of the great occasion. The town will appear, almost to a man. Just a few traffic cops will be left behind to guide the week-enders on their way.

Weymouth has officially declared Saturday a holiday. Than that, no greater honor can be done a man in his own home town. The boys don't give a hoot for the fact that the Browns are not setting the world afire.

They know that the club is a whole lot better than it was a year ago, and they point with pride to fellow citizen Daniel as the cause of that improvement. The Weymouth spirit is a happy thing to come across in these days of commercialized sport

Sort of harks back to the old days when the gangs fought and bled for their athletic heroes. Shows that down under neath, the sporting heart is still present.

Mister Howley will be honored Saturday, and he certainly should feel honored. Fans from other villages, incidentally, will have a chance to realize what a real hero means to a wide awake spot.

HOME FOR OLD DIAMOND STARS REALITY

THE much discussed home for sick and indigent veterans of professional baseball will shortly be a reality. Such a project has been talked about for years. Campaigns to raise funds have started and hovered.

Now the ball players have taken the matter over, and in a very short time, the old timers who haven't been invited will be the ones will have a spot where they can spend the sunset of their lives in peace and happiness.

The Association of Professional Ball Players of America, which was formed in Los Angeles in 1923, has a nucleus of $15,000 in the treasury. The organization was perfected by friends of baseball, with no ulterior object. Players in all leagues have been invited to join, and almost without exception, have answered into line.

Practically all members of the Pirates and Red Sox, including both managers, are in the association. Big league players pay dues of $5 a year, smaller sums are accepted players in the little leagues. Income from the big show alone is about $3,000 annually.

The plan was put up to Commissioner Landis and both his leagues the Commissioner agreed to give his approval if baseball players would show that they were for the movement by paying up at so much per pin. The boys all hopped on the band wagon

Baseball, over the years, has been full of tragedy. Many stars who helped to make the game and fill many baseball coffers, let financial obstacles and passed on, paupers. There have been hundreds of charity jobs always in baseball.

Now the players, by their own organization, are insuring themselves against a future that may be tough. As has been remarked frequently, athletes today are much smarter than the heroes of other times used to be.

The Love Slave ~ New Temptations ~ By Homer Banks

BROADWAY'S "ANGEL"—Corinne did not want to meet George Palmer. Along Broadway she had heard rumors of this Wall Street broker who played downtown with his dollars and uptown with his hearts. But "Flash" insisted. "He's a big man and any other girl would give her box seat in heaven for a chance to meet him. If he takes a liking to you, you're made." Corinne protested. "But I don't want to meet that sort of men!"

SURVIVAL OF THE FITTEST—"Flash" scoffed. A contemptuous, half incredulous smile twisted his lips. "Listen, little girl," he said, facing her squarely, "you're in the show business now. You want to make a success, don't you? This is no Sunday-school picnic. It's a struggle of the survival of the fittest. The hoity-toity stuff don't go, that's all! You want success, George Palmer can give you that little thing. What's the answer? I ask you!"

CORINNE'S TEMPTATION—The girl paused a moment. She wished Fluffy had stayed with her to advise her. "Flash," quick to note her hesitation, placed his hand on her arm. "Believe me, honey," he said, "you can trust old 'Flash' to take care of you. What do you think a girl has an agent for? Palmer's all right. He may be a little wild, but you're just the baby who can tame him!"

FACE TO FACE WITH PALMER—Against her will the girl allowed herself to be led into a waiting taxicab which whirled them away to "Papa" Henderson's night club. Elaborate preparations had been made to celebrate the success of the new show. At a table of honor in the center were the girl, the producer, Corinne was surprised to feel herself quite thrilled to be in this choice position. At the head of the table sat a tall, dark man, with dimples and light hair. He had a flashy smile and wore a light necktie that reminded one of Satan. "That's George Palmer," "Flash" introduced. "Here's Corinne, George. She's all I told you—and more!" (Continued Tomorrow.)

ARE YOU LIVING ON REPUTE OF YOUR ANCESTORS?

Are you a credit to the honorable family whose name you bear?

Your forbears had a fine standing, but you can't carry along on the reputation of your ancestors.

You are sometimes shielded because you are not shown honors that you consider due unto you, and it's disastrous pose.

But you must better ask yourself what is your own personal contribution back into the family line of accomplishments.

To the world you are only a unit, but one with carries with it a special responsibility.

It means it easier for you to shine in great things because your family has set a precedent.

You are not having entirely new trails.

You can go farther and easier because of what your family has done before you.

As Your Child Thinks, So Will He Be!

By L. Lamar Matthews

DUNCAN was riding along on his bicycle one day, when an automobile backed suddenly out of an alleyway and knocked the boy senseless. He was carried to a hospital, where he suffered agonies with his head for several days.

At the end of the week he was removed to his home, where he was the centre of the family group and the neighborhood circle. "He is all right," said his mother, "except that he goes blind every time he tries to stoop over or does anything that strains his eyes."

That created consternation among the friends and relatives and they kept talking about those spells of blindness that threatened the boy's vision. He did not take the matter seriously at first and rather exulted in being able to furnish a sensation for the neighborhood. Everybody who dropped in had something to say about Duncan's eyes and the boy felt an urge to emphasize his spells of blindness just a little.

The more they talked, the more Duncan thought about his eyes. Occasionally he feigned an attack of blindness, just for the satisfaction of causing a stir. And because his nerves had not recovered from the shock of the accident and because the lick on his head had really caused a slight injury to his eyesight, it was very easy for the boy to believe that his attacks were worse than they were.

It has been six months since Duncan was struck by the automobile, but the family will not let him forget that his eyes were injured beyond repair. He has the thought firmly fixed in his mind by this time and he spends entirely too much time feeling sorry for himself. It is quite true that his eyes were affected by the fall upon the hard pavement, but the chances are that he would have recovered much sooner if less had been said about the matter.

Make your children understand that THOUGHT is a very powerful force and that thinking results in action or in speech. There is nothing new about that statement. It is as old as the Bible itself. For it is the Holy Scriptures that says, "As a man thinketh, so is he."

An intelligent woman said recently: "I used to believe that it did not matter what I thought, so long as I told nobody what I was thinking. I recall that I spent hours in hating certain people and planning different sorts of punishment that I should like to see brought upon the offenders.

"I know now that my thoughts betrayed me at the most unexpected moments and that other people found out how I felt toward those hated persons. But I was young then and imagined that I was keeping my secret hidden in my own soul."

Children, and especially imaginative children, do a lot of day dreaming. It is highly advisable that they be given helpful and pleasant subjects to dwell upon while they are doing their thinking.

If your child is one of these quiet, thoughtful little fellows, you will do well to furnish something worth while for that busy brain to ponder.

As the subjects of conversation in his presence, that you would not wish him to think about when he is alone in the dark at night. There are plenty of noble and cheerful and constructive things to think about when he is around and there are books and magazines that will please his fancy and supply good mental food for his spare thinking.

You may not be able to control so far as his thoughts are concerned, but if you are keen enough to see that he is well supplied with all those things that make for clean thinking and healthful living, you can keep him from ever having that most little folks really are.

DO YOU KNOW THAT---

Great Britain spends approximately $4,000,000 a year on apples from abroad.

On an average, every elementary school child in London is examined medically at least once in every two years of his or her period at school.

After several years of experiment a young French mechanic has invented a bicycle which can be transformed into a small monoplane and fly to a height of 150 feet.

Omnibuses to hold 100 passengers are one of the possibilities suggested by an expert as a solution of London's traffic problem.

Laughter is one of the best appetizers. A hearty laugh before a meal means a system more ready for food.

British national expenditure on social services, including education, pensions, poor relief, unemployment and health insurance, etc., now works out at nearly $49 per head of the population.

GIRLS OF SCHOOL AGE KEEP IN GOOD HEALTH

They Find Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a Dependable Medicine

LOUISE LOUTMAN
ROUTE 2, CHARLESTON, ILLINOIS

From the days of the polonaise to the days of the radio, mothers have given this dependable medicine to their daughters. School girls are often careless. They get wet feet. They overstudy or they tire themselves with too many dances and parties. They get run down.

Many an active girl of today, like the demure maiden of the 1870's, has found that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is helping her to find better health and energy.

"I gave my fifteen-year-old girl Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it did her a wonderful lot of good. She had been out of school for four months. I read the advertisements of the Vegetable Compound, and since she has taken it she has improved and has gone back to school again. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to other mothers with girls who are not as strong as they should be."—Mrs. ALICE LOUTMAN, Route 2, Charleston, Illinois.

"My daughter was out of school two terms. I have known about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound all my life and finally decided that she should try it. Three bottles helped her in various ways for the next couple of years."—Mrs. W. E. Gilmore, 986 E. 52nd Place, Los Angeles, Calif.

"I have always been sickly, and until I was fourteen my father was very strict about my perfect attendance at grammar school. I have gone to school through hard storms and often taken cold. When I was fourteen I took to my bed and did not get up for eighteen months. Everyone thought I could not live. Just four months ago I began taking your wonderful medicine, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I could notice a great change almost at once. Now I feel like a new person. I wish all girls would try Lydia E. Pinkham's wonderful medicine."—Miss. C. M. Smith, Union Village, Vermont.

MEDBURY SAYS---

By JOHN P. MEDBURY

ACCORDING to our social workers, three million American families are struggling to keep the wolf from the door. One family was so poor that the society for the prevention of cruelty to animals got after them.

THE wolf hasn't had a thing to eat since he bit the last collector.

AND there isn't much meat on an artificial leg.

HE says he's going to some other home where the people don't stuffed.

IT'S bad enough to hang around poor families, but it's worse it you happen to be there during Lent.

ONE family was so poverty stricken, that in less than a week the wolf lost fifteen pounds.

HUNGER finally got the best of him, and he went to a taxidermist where he was sure of being stuffed.

THE annoying thing, to a man, about stealing a girl's heart is that she is always so unwilling to take it back again when he has finished with it!

No women can believe that her husband was ever as innocent, docile and harmless as he looks in his "baby pictures."

* * *

Somehow, these "Will-you-marry-me-if-I-get-a-divorce" proposals have all the flavor of premature burial.

* * *

The first parlor snake was the Serpent, who put it into Eve's head to break up the Old Home and start this moving-day mania.

To most women, the main difference being single and being married is merely the difference between keeping a taxicab waiting and running after a trolley car.

Few brides have to be "led to the altar," nowadays; most of them are practice-perfect and could find their way there in the dark.

* * *

A cynical epigram is just the one thing to steal the dog biscuits out of your mouth.

HE liked the other people, but the sun was always begging his father for a raccoon coat.

THE poor animal was scared to death. He was afraid he'd go to sleep some night and wake up the next morning in a wardrobe trunk.

HE also heard the husband and wife talking about opening a hot dog stand.

AND no self-respecting wolf wants to wind up his career by being a frankfurter.

BY JOHN P. MEDBURY

THEY had enough of a dog's life as it is.

ONE man says he likes to hate a wolf around his door because when he howls at night he can't hear the baby crying.

NOT only that, but he drowns out five ukuleles and three saxophones across the street.

HE was so scared the wolf was going to leave last month that he tied him up.

WOLVES are getting particularly lately as to whose doors they visit. You'll usually find them hanging around vegetarians.

IN other families, the only day a wolf has any peace of mind is on Friday.

POVERTY is a terrible thing, but the greatest complaint that most poor people have to make is that there aren't enough wolves to go around.

NTIONAL POLICIES OF THE HEARST NEWSPAPERS

1. An agreement of English-speaking peoples to preserve peace among themselves and promote the peace of the world.
2. A constitutional amendment to provide for the election of United States Senators in numbers proportionate to the population of each State; no State to have less than two Senators. A reapportionment of Congressional representation immediately after every census, or in case of the failure of Congress so to act, to make the apportionment automatic at the end of the first Congressional session, the proportion of population for each representative in each case to be that of the existing Congress.
3. A separate Department of the Army, of the Navy and of the Air Forces, all united under a Secretary of National Defense.
4. Federal action to the limit of Federal Government powers to abolish illiteracy among the people of the United States, and the creation of a Secretary of Education.
5. Necessary measures to secure the election of Congress in November and its installation on the 1st of January following, and the inauguration of a President on the 1st of January immediately following his election in November.

A Dog and a Monkey

Does Either THINK?

THE ZOO'S GRANDPA.

These two pictures revive a question which must be as old as human thought, "Do animals think?"

If they do not think, what makes them LOOK so thoughtful?

Above is a picture of a "Roloway" monkey, called the "grandpa" of the London Zoo, because of its solemn face and long white beard. It is hard to believe that this young monkey, so old in appearance, is not really THINKING. The white beard, the white fringe of hair above his eyebrows and the white shirt front give him a ridiculously "human" look.

But between his brain and ours there is a gulf as great as that which separates us from the nearest fixed star. He cannot talk to us, we cannot talk to him. We shall never know whether he THINKS, or only FEELS.

We feel that we understand the dog better, and that we are NEARER, in some way, to this police dog holding patiently in his mouth a perch for two fantail pigeons.

Evolutionists tell us that the monkey is more closely related to us than the dog, yet we "KNOW" the dog better.

A DOG'S SELF-CONTROL.

What mental process is it that causes the police dog to sit patiently, obeying orders, holding the fluttering pigeons in his mouth, not touching them, when his nature would tell him to eat them?

Is there a THINKING process that helps him to do this, or is it only FEAR of what he knows will be the consequences if he fails to obey orders?

And if he "KNOWS THAT THERE ARE CONSEQUENCES," does not that of itself imply thinking?

Is there, perhaps, only one kind of "consciousness" or "thought," that depends for its expression on the brain through which it passes, just as music depends for its quality on the instrument that produces it?

Paderewski with a tom-tom could produce only tom-tom music. Give him a piano and he becomes Paderewski.

Paganini, greatest violin player that ever lived, could only produce banjo music if you gave him a banjo. He had to have a violin to be Paganini.

Perhaps if this poor old "grandpa of the zoo" had a brain as well made as YOURS he might think through it as brilliantly as you do.

It may be the mental MACHINERY that is lacking.

Heroism

There Is Plenty of It in All of Us

Oscar T. Koon is a telephone lineman. In the great Florida hurricane he made his way for sixty-seven miles through darkness, wind, rain and flood, and brought to West Palm Beach the first news of Miami's plight.

He has been awarded a gold medal. The Bell system, thanks to Theodore N. Vail's wise foresight, honors with medals employes who have shown conspicuous heroism in its service.

Heroism is inherent in all of us, needing only the occasion to bring it forth.

Easiest Job on Earth -:- -:- By Franklin Collier

HOW TO KEEP YOUR FRIENDS ALWAYS

By DR. FRANK CRANE

It is a deal easier to make friends than to keep them.

A pretty way, a clever mind, a jovial mood, a generous impulse, a happy occasion, can be cause enough to arouse your interest in a person at first encounter, and you go away saying: "I like that fellow," or "I like that girl."

The real friend grows upon you.

At first you may be indifferent. He may even repel you. He may be gruff, or reserved, or have some odd corners that jag you. Perhaps he's so quiet he seems stupid. Belike he has radical views which he announces belligerently. Or he may appear cynical, or too prim, or loquacious, or supercilious, or egotistic.

But time tells. You are thrown with him again and again. You may have to work with him, or play with him, or meet him at the club or table or group. And by and by you realize that you fit, you two.

You can get along with each other, meaning that you do not rasp. He does not irritate you. You do not have to be always "holding yourself in" when he is around.

Not that you admire him necessarily. Some of our most congenial friends are those of whom we heartily disapprove. You may be fully alive to his limitations, but somehow they do not annoy you.

And, having acquired a friend, it is important not to lose him. One way of getting rid of a friend is to expect too much of him.

You may feel he would do anything for you. But be careful; don't ask him for favors. Just content yourself with the pleasing belief that he would do anything for you.

Don't set traps for him. Don't say, "I will ask him to do so and so, and test his friendship." Whosoever tempts a friend is unworthy of friendship.

Don't ask him to go out of his way to accommodate you. Don't presume upon his good nature.

"No one," says Ed Howe, "has ever done much for me. I may have expected a great deal from friends long ago, but I do not now. I have not only learned that if I expect a great deal of them I will be disappointed; I have learned that I have no right to expect it. Friends are like a pleasant park where you wish to go; while you may enjoy the flowers, you must not cut them."

You will be much more likely to keep friends if you never try to sell them anything, never have money dealings with them, never advise them in any matter where they may possibly lose money, and, in short, eliminate the dollar entirely from your dealings with them.

Another pretty sure method of losing friends is to strive to improve them. Do all your uplift work with your enemies. Take for friends those who suit you just as they are.

BOSTON DAY BY DAY

IN CONDITION

FRANK S. DAVIS, manager of the Maritime Association and one of the heaviest boosters for the port of BOSTON, keeps himself conditioned even on sea trips. On his recent trip home from a study of European ports, he trained on the steamship Republic daily under the direction of REX REEKS, physical director, formerly with the New York health schools of PHILADELPHIA JACK O'BRIEN. FRANK DAVIS looked the part as he stepped off the liner with MRS. DAVIS, after a two months' tour of the Mediterranean, Adriatic and the continent.

THEY CALL HIM JUDGE.

Perhaps it is because he picks future values so accurately that THOMAS P. GAGEN, Boston Stock Exchange member, is being addressed as "JUDGE GAGEN" these days. Handling stocks profitably certainly calls for a talented judge. But perhaps MR. GAGEN gets the honorary title handed him because he is a lawyer. Only two Boston Stock Exchange members have passed bar examinations.

WARNINGS

"Dealing in derelicts," nearly as the same charm as guiding a man of war through them, according to CAPTAIN J. A. KITTINGER, U. S. N., head of the Hydrographic Office at the Custom House. Every month, KITTINGER, young in years though a veteran in matters naval, is responsible for new charts depicting exact positions of floating derelicts, newly discovered rocks and other menaces to shipping. Zealousness in his work and timely tips on navigation, has won him a host of friends and profusions of thanks among skippers that make the Hub their destination or port of call.

VALUABLE.

In the retirement of FRANK ARNOLD, lieutenant of the HYDE PARK station, the police department loses one of its best officers. Lieut. Arnold was sent to Hyde Park in 1912, when the town was annexed to the city. He was a sergeant in JAMAICA PLAIN at that time and when the late Police Commissioner O'Meara was searching for a man of experience for the Hyde Park station, he promoted Arnold. Lieut. Arnold assisted the officers of that division in the methods of the Boston police department and many a young man of the new force is grateful for advice they received from him.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

MRS. TAYLOR does not like the way I write this column. Why don't I try to cheer up all these sad people who tell me their troubles?

Why don't I try to dispel their belief in their bad luck and show them that they're more fortunate than they think—make them see that everything will come out well—instead of agreeing with them and taking their trouble seriously.

Well—maybe I should, lady.

Perhaps my method is all wrong—but somehow I always try to put myself in the other fellow's place.

Suppose I were all crummed up with grief and gloom like he is—would I like to have someone come along and tell me to count my blessings?

Would I like to be assured that things weren't half as bad as I thought they were?

I WOULD NOT!

Makes Her Mad.

If there's anything that makes me MAD when I'm in trouble, it's one of those professional Cheer-Ups with a valsparred smile.

Do I believe that they are God's ministering angels?

I do not.

I think they are a lot of Sunshine Show-Offs, trying to prove how much smarter they are than I am.

They're not really sympathizing with my pain or trying to understand my problem. They're just butting in and collecting merit for themselves by glowing while I'm glowering. And airing their superior brains.

Why should they bust in and tell me there is nothing the matter with me when I know darned well there is? Can't I reason? Am I paralyzed above the ears? Didn't I graduate from grammar school with a seventy-eight average? Then what's the big idea of trying to make me look like a melancholy pit-wit?

And as for telling me that everything will come out well—

How do they know? Where did they get their inside information?

As a matter of fact, everything doesn't come out well.

A lot of things come out BAD and never get over it.

Why Smile?

Then why should they smile in that superior way at my tears, as if I were a baby squalling at the Bogey Man?

And, at any rate, if I want to wallow in gloom, who's got a better right? If that's my idea of a good time, why disturb me? Why drag me out and scrub me off and put me under the stove to dry when all I want is to be left alone with my lil' ole tragedy?

That's the way I feel when I'm having a spell of bad luck, lady. And when the other fellow comes to me with his troubles, that's the way I reckon he feels. And I treat him accordingly.

Which maybe isn't good journalism.

But it's my idea of a neighbor.

WORDS OF THE WISE MEN

What heart can think, or tongue express,
That harm that groweth of idleness?
—John Heywood.

Hope! of all ills that men endure,
The only cheap and universal cure.
—Cowley.

The truest characters of ignorance
Are vanity, and pride, and arrogance.
—Butler.

In doing what we ought we deserve no praise, because it is our duty.
—St. Augustine.

He that invents a machine augments the power of a man and the well-being of mankind.
—Henry Ward Beecher.

God is the perfect poet,
Who in His person acts His own creations.
—Robert Browning.

For the whole world, without a native home,
Is nothing but a prison of larger room.
—Cowley.

A lost good name is ne'er retrieved.
—Gay.

And none speaks false when there is none to hear.
—Beattie.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By ALINE MICAELIS.

THERE is beauty always in the sunlight; there is joy in the gold that it flings as it kisses the flower till it blossoms, as it gladdens the bird till it sings. Oh, a life like the sunlight is lovely as it enlarges its gold to the rest, and it gives of its bounty of brightness till the lives of lie fellows are blest! But the shadows are restful and cooling, having charms of a quieter hue, and a beauty lurks deep in their dimness that can equal sun's gold and sky's blue. And some lives, like the shadows, are tinted (others showing more bright for their shade), but be it of sun or of shadow, for some good, for some grace each was made.
